Library and Arch. Canada (LAC) (Ottawa) is changing its system of numbering manuscript collections. For example, what used to be MG 26, O (Pierre Elliott Trudeau fonds) is now R11629-0-8. Collections described in this bibliography are cited under the new numbers; they can still be accessed under the old numbers.

The Trudeau fonds, a vast collection, is the product of numerous accessions, the most significant being the private papers that were transferred to LAC after his death. These documents include his extensive private correspondence, drafts of articles and letters, and an abundance of personal material. Also at LAC are some records from his period as justice minister, held in the Dept. of Justice fonds (R188-0-3). The Privy Council Office fonds (R165-0-5) are especially important for Trudeau's tenure as prime minister. Cabinet conclusions are available online subject to access legislation.

There are important Trudeau records in the United States. Gerald Rudolph Ford's papers, held at the Gerald R. Ford Library in Ann Arbor, Mich., contain some fascinating material, as do those papers of Ronald Wilson Reagan (Reagan, Ronald W.: Files, 1981–89) that are open to researchers at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library and Museum in Simi Valley, Calif. (Access restrictions cover most of Reagan's papers and those of James [Jimmy] Earl Carter at the Jimmy Carter Library and Museum in Atlanta, Ga.) The Watergate tapes in Richard Milhous Nixon's papers (Nixon Presidential Materials) at the National Arch. and Records Administration (College Park, Md) are available online, and they vividly reveal this American leader's disdain for Trudeau.

The papers of many of Trudeau's colleagues are disorganized, closed, or unavailable. LAC holds fonds that are exceptions: the detailed, well-organized collection of Alastair William Gillespie (R1526-0-6), and those of Arthur Laing (R11858-0-3), Otto Emil Lang (R10981-0-6), and Paul Joseph James Martin (R9118-0-6), all of which have important documents. The papers of John Napier Turner and Allan Joseph MacEachen, which are not yet open, have material of interest. The papers of Lester Bowles Pearson (R7581-0-9) contain useful pre-1968 information as well as his often angry reactions to Trudeau's policies after 1968. The collections of Gérard Pelletier (R11939-0-3) and Jean Marchand (R6119-0-3) are disappointing, particularly for the years before Trudeau became politically active. At the Bibliothèque et Arch. nationales du Québec (Québec), the fonds for Claude Ryan (P558), François Hertel (MSS385), and René Lévesque (P18) contain important Trudeau material. The Thomas Worrall Kent fonds at Queen's Univ. Arch. (Kingston, Ont.) also have interesting documents dealing with Trudeau's years as prime minister.
