

Science, Sense and Nonsense

61 Nourishing, Healthy, Bunk-Free Commentaries on the Chemistry That Affects Us All

JOE SCHWARCZ PhD.

In an age where the fear of chemistry looms large, bestselling author Dr. Joe Schwarcz defends his beloved science

In the sixties and seventies, the public's view of chemistry changed. What had been seen as a boon to humanity, furnishing us with miraculous medicines, fibers and plastics, became associated with warfare, sinister food additives and pollution.

In Science, Sense and Nonsense, Dr. Joe looks at chemistry's history, its connection to our lives and the strange misconceptions we have of the subject. He explores many of the great chemistry-based controversies: the alleged threat of vaccines, the truth about vitamin B6, how to avoid cancer, the pseudoscience of cosmetics, the allergy epidemic and the benefits and limits of animal testing. As usual Dr. Joe explains it all in a highly readable, authoritative and witty style, arming the reader with the information needed to separate the sense from the nonsense.

DOUBLEDAY CANADA

Popular Science • 288 pages

Publication: MS available • To be published November, 2009 (pb original)

Rights Held: World

Contact: Ron Eckel • reckel@randomhouse.com

Also available by Dr. Joe Schwarcz:

Brain Fuel

199 Mind-Expanding Inquiries into the Science of Everyday Life

DOUBLEDAY CANADA

Popular Science • 288 pages

Publication: September, 2008 (pb original)

Rights Held: World

Rights Sold: Italy: Edizioni Dedalo; Korea (South): Bada Publishing;
Romania: House of Guides

Contact: Ron Eckel • reckel@randomhouse.com

DR. JOE SCHWARCZ is the Director of the Office for Science and Society at Montreal's McGill University. He is the author of seven previous books of popular science and co-author of the international blockbuster Foods That Harm, Foods That Heal which has sold more than 40 million copies worldwide.

Photo © Tony Laurinatis